

Dr. Julielynn Wong, MD, MPH
Founder, Chairman, & C.E.O., 3D4MD

Dr. Julielynn Wong is a brilliant, captivating, and unforgettable speaker who infuses powerful storytelling with a playful personality. She brings an unrivaled passion for ideas that inspires audiences to embrace innovation and engage technology to solve big challenges. Following medical school at Queen's University, Dr. Wong received a Frank Knox Memorial Fellowship to complete her Masters of Public Health degree studies at Harvard University. She is board-certified in public health and general preventive medicine, has authored over 35 scientific and technical publications and has filed 6 patents for medical devices. She is a passionate educator who has taught courses and workshops for thousands of grade school, university, and postgraduate students. Additionally, Dr. Wong is an avid pilot and drone racer, has flown as a microgravity researcher with NASA's parabolic flight program, and served as an analog astronaut for NASA's Human Exploration Research Analog IX and the Mars Desert Research Station Crew 145 mission simulations. Dr. Wong is a highly sought-out dynamic speaker and has spoken at the UN, Google Canada, Smithsonian, multiple TEDx's and leading international conferences. She is a contributor for ABC World News, Forbes and the Huffington Post, and has appeared on CNN, ABC News, CTV, CBC News, Global National TV, CP24, Discovery and Space Channel.